EXHIBITION IMAGE TITLES

An image that has been accepted in a PSA recognized exhibition must display the same image title, even if you enter it in a different category.

For example, if you have an image that meets the Nature definition, you could enter it in all of the following sections (but not in the same exhibition):

- A Nature digital section as a colour image.
- A Nature digital section as a monochrome image.
- A Nature print section as a colour image.
- A Nature print section as a monochrome image.
- A PIDC section.
- A PIDM section.

For ALL of these entries you must use the SAME title for the image!

If you use slightly different titles when entering an image on multiple occasions the acceptances will be recorded in the PSA database as different titles. This may cause issues when you apply for Star Ratings. If you DO find that you have made an error with title consistency make a Note on your Star application in the following way:

Show both titles in the 'Titles' column of your application and write "Equivalent titles" in the 'Notes' column.

Examples of some common errors in titles:

Colour symphony = Colour Symphony (spelling error)

Red car = The red car

Fisherman at work = Fishermen at work

Heron with crab = Heron and crab

Girlfriends = Girl friendsw

Dreams in black and white = Dreams in BW

Volunteer with PSA

The Photographic Society of America is a volunteer organization that continues to expand from the collaborative photographic interests of its volunteer members. There are many ways to contribute to the success of PSA. Consider encouraging your non-member photographer friends to join PSA as this helps keep our membership fees from increasing, membership fees make up just over 30% of PSA's income.

Equally important is volunteering just a portion of time to your specific area of interest. Please scan the possibilities at <https://psa-photo.org/index.php?volunteering> or contact the Volunteer Services Director for ideas currently unlisted on the website.

Image Analysis Workshop

The Evergreen Camera Club and St. Vrain Photo Society partnered to offer an Image Analysis Workshop on October 27, 2018. The workshop course instructor was Jon Fishback, PSA Education Services Director and Course Instructor, from the Pacific Northwest.

Fishback's workshop was very informative and proved to be a fun challenge for participants as they practiced the skill of spontaneous image analysis and judging.
